

hasty, located in the heart of the town on Pera street, a howling and jostling mob is trying to squeeze in through the keyholes, cellar gratings, and barred windows to get passport visas. Outside the steamship offices, crowds are bartering and pleading for tickets for shipping accommodations to Piraeus, offering fabulous sums to square on the decks of the old slow freighters among the unhappy, filthy, evil-smelling, and ragged refugees.

Every Greek Wears Fez.

Every Greek is wearing a fez and trying to camouflage himself as a Turk, but he realizes that he is spotted and fears he will be included in the massacres which he expects will be staged when the nationalists come.

Wherever fez topped Greeks are loading trunks, bags, bundles, women, and children into springless wagons attached to skinny nags, harnessed with string and rope, and driven to the port.

Certain consular officials are accused of making a good thing out of nationalizing Greeks, their citizenship being given in consideration of suitable compensation, usually about 200 Turkish pounds, with reduced rates for large families.

Old Staff for Armenians.

The Armenians are laying low and saying nothing. They have been massacred too many times to attempt to escape what is coming and, further, when they realize that they are as likely to get the knife if they fly with the Greeks as if they await the Turks. After all the Ottomans realize that they need the Armenians to lend them money and the Turks only get restive when they are charged 20 or 30 per cent interest on loans.

The Russian refugees, who have been here for several years, are also packing and preparing to leave. They will be deported to Russia through a secret agreement entered into by Ankara and Moscow. The Russians are chiefly waiters, musicians, newspaper sellers, cigaret smokers, and card players, interspersed with a few chauffeurs, sandwichmen, and dog exercisers.

A shipload of British women and children aboard the Empress of India proceeded to Constantinople in restaurants, cabarets, and night resorts being plentifully patronized by tired and lonesome British business men seeking a little recreation. This has resulted in a distinct boon to the Russian waitresses in restaurants of a certain class, where they sit down and drink with clients seeking company.

A City of Rumors.

The city presented a most grotesque appearance during the conference at Mudania, the wildest war rumors being spread by the press and everywhere. The sidewalks were so crowded as to seriously interfere with business. Street peddlers were selling everything from coffins to cat meat.

The Turks and Greeks here hold the world's record in all weights for carrying the heaviest loads that their backs, it even being asserted that one fellow was seen staggering down the main street, a red hot kitchen stove, the smoke curling graciously from the chimneys. Another had five caskets strapped to his back. He explained that he was seeking the probable location of a massacre and he hoped to get good prices for his stock.

The cat meat merchants are picturesque but odious. They carry their meat in mysterious rolls, some of which were surrounded by torches in the streets. From latticed windows above the street vailed faces looked out, drinking in the details of the scene. A tired child who had waited for hours in the heat, his head pillow'd on a window sill, was given a cold drink.

Simplicity Marks Ceremony.

Thus passed the Turkey. Not thus Turkey, perhaps, but to the entire world. Dignified simplicity marked the whole ceremony. Gens. Harlington, Charpy, and Mombelli were in field uniform, while Ismet Pasha was clad in a simple tunic, olive-drab breeches, and black boots. Two sentries stood stoutly at the entrance to the building, one in an American uniform and the other in a British and both wore a star and crescent. They had waited on a rough field.

There were no frock-coated individuals or others in gorgeous uniforms. They had no place on this occasion.

Most Keep Polished Up.

The toy balloon salesmen do a big business with the starving Russian refugees, who buy in quantities, shirts and the hairdressing and perfume curios' parlors are crowded continually with elegant though poverty stricken Muscovite confesses, supported by American relief organizations, who feel compelled to have their finger nails polished up daily and their hair wavy.

The Armenians, who generally hook on to some Turk to buy for a few piasters daily, buy, sell, and purchase precious stones, gold, silver, and platinum, haggis with the Russians, speculate on exchange, and even lend money if the right things are left as security.

The shimmymakers are alarmed because three "American jazz bands" are preparing to play because the members are Greeks. But the enterprising Turkish barbers are buying up swish nicked plates chairs from "American dentists" carrying Greek passports.

The Turk is Not Worried.

The only person not worrying is old man Turk, in his baggy, deep-seated pants, curly toe slippers, Eton jackets, hairy chest, and fez and smoking cigar. He has no dentists, tools they all are having so scarce.

There are plenty of good business opportunities for hustling young Turks anxious to get along by replacing the Greek barbers, fruit salesmen, tobacco, tobacco, and cocaine salesmen, but most Turks are too busy keeping the street garrilles bubbling, watching the street cars go, mending decrepit umbrellas, and roasting chestnuts to bother themselves with chasing money.

ALLIED TROOPS RUSHED TO OPEN THRACE TO TURK

Moslems Celebrate as Truce Is Signed.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 11.—[By Associated Press.]—News of the conclusion of the armistice negotiations at Mudania reached the general public here only with the appearance of this morning.

Turkish leaders on the Stamboul side began plans for a formal celebration this evening with parades and the customary display of colored lanterns and flags. These plans were approved by the allied authorities on assurance that the demonstration would be orderly. Turkish flags appeared during the day along the principal thoroughfares.

Gen. Harlington and Gen. Charpy returned from Mudania at noon and Gen. Mombelli followed a short time afterward. The allied officers stated that the first detachment of allied troops to be sent into Thrace would begin leaving Constantinople almost immediately in order to insure the fulfillment of the evacuation agreement within the specified time.

HOW TRUE WAS SIGNED

BY JOHN CLAYTON.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

MUDANIA, Oct. 11.—At 6 o'clock this morning a rocket shot into the dawn to signal the completion of the armistice protocol arranged by the allies and the Turkish nationalists saving the near east from further war. Thirty-five minutes later Lieut. Gen. Sir Charles Harlington of Great Britain, Gen. Charpy of France, Gen. Mombelli of Italy, and Ismet Pasha, the Turkish national depute, placed their signatures on the documents. The armistice was concluded between the allies and the Turks.

Outside a Turkish military band was playing the nationalistic military hymn as friends and leave. Thus the guard of honor, weary from all night vigil, raised their stony countenances and exclaimed, "Thanks be to Allah, it is finished."

The swarthy faces and flashing eyes of the civilians surrounding them added to the mystery and solemnity of the scene which was punctuated only by torches in the streets. From latticed windows above the street vailed faces looked out, drinking in the details of the scene. A tired child who had waited for hours in the heat, his head pillow'd on a window sill, was given a cold drink.

Two chiefs arose, shook hands, and took their farewell. The Mudanians were finished.

As the motor cars bearing the allied generals to their ships rolled down Mudania's one street the Turkish band broke into a military march while the guard of honor—keen, fine looking men all—came to a snappy "present arms," while people who had kept an all night vigil cheered the glad tidings.

Blackest on Monday Night.

"There were moments when I thought that the war could not be avoided," said Harlington to a reporter who started back to Constantinople. "I had two ultimatums in my pocket, one of which I was prepared to give Ismet Pasha. His eyes were flashing when he demanded, 'Is that your final word, excellency?' I placed my hands in my pocket where the ultimatum rested, and was fast friends for a number of years and were constantly together, but quarreled last night.

Man, 85, Held as Slayer of 80 Year Old Roommate

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—August Rief, 85, an inmate of the San Francisco relief home, is being held on a charge of murder as a result of the death today of Arnold Muller, 80, Rief's roommate. The aged man had been fast friends for a number of years and were constantly together.

He had no place on this occasion.

The ceremonies attending the signings were as simple as the uniforms. On one side of the bâche covered table on which stood oil lamps was Gen. Harlington, with Gen. Mombelli on the right and Gen. Charpy on the left. Ismet was the opposite. On each side, Asim Pasha, Ismet's chief of staff, stood behind his general. Hamid Bey was seated by the barred window overlooking the bay, where the gray dawn was now changing to blue. Henri Franklin-Bouillon was directly behind Gen. Charpy.

Greeks Refuse to Sign.

Gen. Harlington asked that the Greek note in which the Greeks refused to sign the protocol be read. In the note the Greeks declared that they had no instructions from their government and could not recognize the protocol.

The Turk is Not Worried.

The only person not worrying is old man Turk, in his baggy, deep-seated pants, curly toe slippers, Eton jackets, hairy chest, and fez and smoking cigar. He has no dentists, tools they all are having so scarce.

There are plenty of good business opportunities for hustling young Turks anxious to get along by replacing the Greek barbers, fruit salesmen, tobacco, tobacco, and cocaine salesmen, but most Turks are too busy keeping the street garrilles bubbling, watching the street cars go, mending decrepit umbrellas, and roasting chestnuts to bother themselves with chasing money.

Good-bye, Order-taker!

We have emerged from the "order-taking" era.

Production exceeds distribution. There are not enough real salesmen to move the goods. Real Salesmanship begins where "order-taking" stops.

Harry Newman Tolles, president of The Sheldon School, will deliver an address on the subject of "The New Salesmanship" on Monday evening, October 16, at 8:00 o'clock in the lecture hall of The Sheldon School, 9th Floor, North American Building, 36 South State Street.

Admission free, but by ticket only. Many employers will want their right hand men to hear this talk.

Arrangements may also be made for similar addresses before business groups in their own institutions.

Successful men grasp opportunity as it arises. Don't be the victim of inertia. Let that something within you that says "That free lecture is for me," prompt you to phone State 2916 for your tickets now—or write The Sheldon School.

LLOYD GEORGE'S FOES HARD PUT TO FIND LEADER

Political Pilots Expect Ballot by Christmas.

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Prime Minister Lloyd George left for the country this morning. He does not intend to return until after his speech at Manchester on Saturday, at which he is determined to face his enemies to tell them what he thinks of them and to demand the support of the country for his policies. He will devote the rest of the week to golf, writing on his book, and preparing his speech.

After listening to reports of motor cycle policemen from all sections of the city at a secret meeting called yesterday by Chief Justice Harry Olson, Judge Robert E. Gentzel of Speeders' court and Judge Olson prepared a list of "Donts" for autoists.

The policemen urged to talk frankly, based their complaints upon "fixing."

Some said the judges were "fixed," others that the clerks whispered to the judges, and others that the charges never get to court. The "Donts" follow:

"Don't try to fix the judge; you'll go to jail."

"Don't fix the clerk. The clerk will go to jail."

"Don't haw out a policeman. It will cost you money."

"Don't disregard a summons. It will cost you more money."

"Don't try to fix a case."

no taste for this office, and in any case is loyal to Mr. Lloyd George.

Mr. Chamberlain will appear for Birmingham Friday evening in a speech at Conservative to be held by the coalition.

Afterward Lloyd George's speech at Manchester will be a call to the Liberal to rally around him again. The prime minister will claim a triumph in the firmness of British diplomacy in the near east, and he will have an excellent argument to support his claim.

Without fighting, Great Britain has secured control of the straits and re

BEAUTY WILL ASK LAW TO DISCLOSE HER ACCUSERS

Other Man' Brands Story of Candler a Lie.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 11.—Mrs. De Bouchel announced tonight that she would return to her home at New Orleans tomorrow and continue the fight to obtain the names of the persons whom she said Asa G. Candler Sr., Atlanta capitalist, told her brought him reports reflecting on her and caused him to break his engagement to marry her.

Mrs. De Bouchel has "done all she could do here," said a formal statement issued tonight by her attorney, Harry M. Gandy of New Orleans, who stated that he would accompany his client to New Orleans on his return train tomorrow. "She has stated her cause, and we feel most grateful for the splendid response of the women and manhood of Georgia," the statement read.

Georgia Press Sympathetic.
The press has been four square to the "ladies within their gates," the statement continued. "The old Anglo-Saxon spirit of aggressive sympathy for the under dog has never been more eloquently displayed."

The case is now in the hands of Mrs. De Bouchel's legal advisers, Vinson, who she will have. It is now for them to find the most effective way to accomplish it.

Mr. Gamble discounted a statement made in Los Angeles today by Wilbur Le Gette, representative to him, "It is added," his statement asserted, "that the dispatch from Los Angeles says that a man there asserts that he is the traveling salesman claimed to be the Candler to be defaming Mrs. De Bouchel, and that it is not true, or presents mere intrusion on the part, however well intended."

Has Not Been Named.
He has not been named, and no person elsewhere than in Atlanta has claimed to be making these infamous reflections on Mrs. De Bouchel. Employment of local counsel will be decided on later, probably after he has had time to go over the whole situation with his client, after they reach New Orleans, Mr. Gamble said.

Mrs. De Bouchel again referred to others she said she had made to obtain from Mr. Candler the names of the persons whom he said he told her had brought reports to him about her.

Has Candler's Letters.
In the course of her conversation with newspaper men, in the presence of her attorney, Mrs. De Bouchel referred to copies of letters which she had kept in writing to Mr. Candler. Mr. Gamble, declined, however, to allow her to make the letters at this time.

Mrs. De Bouchel said she blamed the family more than she did Mr. Candler for the present situation.

When asked if she was back, she declined, adding that she was sorry for him. She reiterated her belief that Mr. Candler still loved her, she said, however, that no reconciliation was now possible.

Mr. Candler Sr. appeared at his office today, but stated that he had nothing regarding the case.

Admits He's "the Salesman."

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 11.—Wilbur Le Gette, formerly of Atlanta, Ga., volunteered the statement today that he was the traveling salesman mentioned by Asa G. Candler in the statements published by Mrs. Onezima of the Mendelson bank said today. He voiced the pessimism which prevails here. "The government does not have the courage to inform the public that as the year's crop is bad, we are forced to buy great quantities of food from South America in order to save the country from starvation."

"The whole story attributed to Candler is a lie," declared Le Gette. "It is a fabrication of scandal mongers. There is no finer woman on earth than Mrs. De Bouchel."

Never Alone with Her.

"Mr. Candler and I were the only men who could be mentioned as spending time with Mrs. De Bouchel during that convention. She was constantly in my company, she being supervisor general of the convention and entertaining the delegates. There were always several young ladies present and never was she with me alone."

Le Gette said that he had not communicated with any man in Atlanta regarding the statements, but had immediately sought his lawyers to see what he could do to clear charges against Mrs. De Bouchel. He said the charges were astounding to any one who knew Mrs. De Bouchel, and that he was prepared to go to Atlanta at any time to "defend the honor of a good woman, such as becomes a southern gentleman."

Two men arrested are Bert "Bubbles" B. Hart, 4727 Federal street; A. C. Hart and Glenn Crockett of 4743 State street, and Peter McGuire, 4902 State street.

They were named in the connection with Percy Robinson, who was brought back from East St. Louis a few days ago by Sergt. Costello. The relatives, starting with nothing but nicknames and aliases, ferreted out the real names and addresses of the men, watched for them, and arrested them all in an hour. They were commended by their superiors.

GERMANY TRIES TO HALT FURTHER CRASH OF MARK

Plan to Limit Deals in Foreign Money.

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—[By the Associated Press.]—The cabinet today discussed measures to prevent a further fall in the value of the mark. It was unanimously decided to recommend to President Ebert that he issue an ordinance limiting speculation in foreign currencies.

The question of issuing treasury bills of a fixed value and further measures designed to sustain the value of the mark also were considered. The discussion will continue throughout the next few days.

The report that the government is actively contemplating stern measures to curb wild speculation has put at least temporary fear into bourse operators, and a marked falling off in the demand for foreign exchange resulted today in a drop of more than 300 points in the dollar rate as compared with Tuesday's closing quotations. On Tuesday the dollar was quoted at 2966.28 at closing. Today it opened at 2775 and closed at 2596.75.

BANKER IS SKEPTICAL

BY SIGRID SCHULZET.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
BERLIN, Oct. 11.—"Whatever action the government may decide on at the cabinet meeting today to discuss measures necessary to stabilize the mark and prevent speculation, it will prove useless," Director Manoville of the Mendelson bank said today. He voiced the pessimism which prevails here. "The government does not have the courage to inform the public that as the year's crop is bad, we are forced to buy great quantities of food from South America in order to save the country from starvation."

The government is to forbid the sale of foreign money by all banks in general, centralizing the exchange in a few banks which will be easy to control. The speculators will be forced to pay from a 70 to an 80 per cent tax on their profits; the government believing that it can control these profits, since secret banking privileges were abolished a year ago."

YANK FISHERMEN TUNE UP BOATS FOR TRIAL RACE

Bluenose, Cup Defender, on Way to Gloucester.

BY JAMES B. CONNOLLY.

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—The fisherman's cup trial race, which will be sailed off here tomorrow or next day, promises thrills. The winner will meet the Canadian Bluenose for the Atlantic championship. The Bluenose sailed from Halifax for Gloucester today.

Two years ago there was no time for trial races. Last year Gloucester held what she called a trial race, with four vessels hurriedly casting loose from whatever wharves they happened to be tied up to and hustling outside the point to help tune up the Elsie, who was herself hardly more ready than the others. This year we have vessels coming in from sea a week ahead of time, having their outside scrubbed and their inside cleaned out, and otherwise putting a fine finish on themselves.

Elizabeth Howard Put in Shape.

One, the Elizabeth Howard, designed originally as a boat yacht, has a bowsprit fitted to her to give her more head sail room, such being the enthusiasm of Capt. Ben Pine to do his bit toward making the Elizabeth a worthy contender for the cup.

Four vessels altogether, sailing from three ports, will sail in the trials. The Howard is owned in New York. It is modeled after a whaleboat, the vessel that for years was rated the fastest thing out of Gloucester.

The Howard has not always been fishing. It was a coaster for a while, plying from Newfoundland to ports south. During the war it took a cruise across the ocean and up the Mediterranean, and for two years was lost to Gloucester. A real seagoing fisherman, admiral, with an eye to a fine boat, Capt. Pine took a peek at the Howard and commanded it for running between Turkish and Russian ports of the Black sea.

Boston Has Two Entries.

There are two entries from Boston. The L. A. Dunton, Capt. Felis Hogan, is a great all around vessel for its tonnage, though hardly enough tonnage to be racing the big fellows. Boston's other entry is Capt. Michael Brophy's Yankee, a modified Burgess model. It is 128 feet all shore, enough to sail the Bluenose 143, or the Ford's 135 feet, but that 128 feet is all very well this year. It hooked up with the Mayflower in heavy weather passage from the west.

The Yankee, Dunton, and Howard all carry what would be called a big spread of canvas for a fisherman, but they all fall short of the sail spread of the Henry Ford, which is Gloucester's entry. The Ford's 135 feet, but that 128 feet is all very well this year. It hooked up with the Mayflower in heavy weather passage from the west.

Gloucester Hopes in Ford.

Gloucester banks on the Ford not so much for what it has done as for its ways of doing what it has done. It had a run outside with it the other day, with sheets off, on smooth water and a light air. It is certainly fast, but as Capt. Morrissey says, "I don't know how much it can stand," he says, "but I know it can take the sticks out of it."

Of course, they all want wind off the coast. Brophy is praying for it. Hogan wants it, and Pine likewise. Wind will suit Capt. Morrissey, too. "I don't know how much it can stand," he says, "but I know it can take the sticks out of it."

It has been foggy and flat for three days now, but the air is drying up and the wind picking up. The prospect is for a fresh westerly breeze tomorrow.

TRAVELERS JAM YANKEE LINERS WITH HEAVY HIPS

Companies Say All Space
Is Booked to Nov. 4.

BY JOHN STEELE.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The management of American steamship lines here denied today that there had been any cancellations of passages on American liners sailing from England on account of Attorney General Daugherty's ruling on booze, and all vessels are booked full from London until Nov. 4.

On the Southampton service the Washington sails tomorrow with every berth booked and the America, sailing on Oct. 26, has everything taken.

Passengers Stock Up.

It is reported that many passengers are taking their own with them, which no one can afford, and the liquor dealers at Southampton and Tilbury are doing a rushing business in bottle trade. The ships, of course, are now dry in accordance with the dry ruling.

All British ships are sailing with fully loaded holds, in accordance with arrest, which the officials are prepared to contest in American courts.

There has been no falling off in the bookings on American vessels, and it is not likely there will be while the rush for home continues. The officials are not certain what it will be after the rush is over.

British Liners Wet.

The Homeric, which sailed today, the Scythia, which sails tomorrow, and the Aquitania Saturday, are not affected by the Daugherty ruling, which does not affect ships leaving American ports until Oct. 14. Only American ships are affected now.

It is reported here that the French and Italians may make a diplomatic protest on the ground that the ruling, if enforced, will compel them to violate their own laws, which prescribe a regular wine supply for seamen.

LOWDEN MAKES ANNUAL ORATION BEFORE MASON

Ex-Gov. Frank O. Lowden yesterday delivered the annual oration before the eighty-third annual convention of the International Association of Free and Accepted Masons. He spoke at length on the present situation brought about by the European conflict, and said the spirit of masonry had conquered some of the obstacles it was necessary to face, countering prejudices and hatred throughout the world.

He announced last night by Owen Scott of Decatur, Ill., there are 247,000 Masons in the country, comprising membership of more than 1,000 lodges. Twenty-six new lodges were added to the long list this year, he said. Of these, twenty-one are in Chicago, and one each in Granville, Winnetka, Gridley, Beach and Lake Zurich.

The convention will close today with appointment of a number of grand lodge officers.

All members of the grand lodge and a number of delegates journey yesterday to La Grange, Ill., to inspect the orphans' home maintained by the lodges.

DR. MAC KECHNIE TO HEAD CHICAGO MEDICAL SOCIETY

Dr. John S. Nagel, the retiring president, was the guest of honor last night at a banquet and dance given by the Chicago Medical Society at the Morrison Hotel. The newly elected officers were introduced by Dr. Charles E. Humiston, toastmaster. They are Dr. Hugh N. MacKechnie, president; Dr. Archibald Church, president-elect, and Dr. R. R. Ferguson, secretary.

Recalling other post-war periods, Prof. Shaler Mathews of the University of Chicago, who was the principal speaker, declared that the society was in the making. A new morality is being organized by the younger generation, he said, and cited an automobile ride in which the father's part had been to say, "Just a little easier, Malcolm"; the son's part, "Let's step on the gas."

Hassel's "Envoy" $9

We take particular pride in recommending this bench-made style to our customers; good-looking, comfortable fitting, and for wear there's nothing better made. Comes in genuine dark tan Russian calf at $9; imported black French calf, $10; high or low shoes. Mail orders filled. Catalogue mailed on request.

After you've slopped about in the weather we've had lately, you are liable to think about stouter, newer fall shoes.

You know what's coming. Winter will be worse than this. It takes a good husky pair of shoes to stand it.

Of course, you don't have to say good-bye to smart style just because you're looking for sturdiness.

We can show you scores of new ultra as well as the conservative styles that look well and that we'll guarantee will wear well and give you thorough satisfaction.

You ought to take a look at some of the shoes we're showing at $5, $6, $7, $8, $9, $10. You'll be genuinely surprised at the fine values. Some are in our display windows, others inside. Come and see. We like to show them. You needn't buy.

Prohibition Commissioner Haynes' interpretation of this point, however, is that the Daugherty ruling provides clearly for seizures. But he admitted that this part of the regulations might be materially changed before they were signed by Secretary Mellon.

3 HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS MISSING; ANOTHER LOST

Mystery Added to Davis Case.

park going to and from school," the mother explained. "She said the woman was nice to her, that she seemed so gentle and well bred.

Promised Auto Ride.

"I think she mentioned once or twice that the lady said she would take her for an auto ride some day."

Two of Margaret's girl friends also students at Marshall High, told of the "young man" the girl had been meeting in the park every evening since last Wednesday—a week ago yesterday. At the same time they furnished detectives with the clew that led them to believe the missing student may have met with misfortune.

The chums were Constance Stephens and Lillian Moohay, who live in the same building with the girl's parents at 1100 North Dearborn. They said that Margaret told them she was "about to do something about a misunderstanding she had with her parents," a misunderstanding about which the father and mother profess to know nothing.

Man Volunteers Aid.

It was these girls' story also of the "young man in the park" which started the detectives toward the West-Madison street poolroom to search for him. The detective was sent to have found the man who knew this young man, and who stated he had not seen him for several days, at the same time volunteering to point out the "poolroom he hangs out in."

The first time he spoke to Margaret he followed us and said, "Hello, cutie," to her," Miss Stephens said. "Margaret was angry. She turned on him and said she'd never see him again. The next night he was there again and Margaret talked with him."

A final puzzling angle to the case was the finding by Mrs. Davis of a complete camping outfit which the girl had apparently got together, hid, and then failed to take with her. The mother found this beneath a counter in the small store she manages.

BACK TO JUNGLE GOES ELEPHANT AS DOGS ANNOY

Wilmington, N. C., Oct. 11.—The big circus elephant that effected a second escape from her keepers here last night had disappeared today in the semi-tropical jungle along the Brunswick river, where residents said there was little chance of her recapture.

In her second break for liberty the elephant swam the Cape Fear river. Three keepers pursued, but the vegetation is so dense and the danger from alligators so great that they abandoned their excursion.

The big animal first became frightened by dogs when she was being loaded Monday night and chased the dogs through several back yards and then took off for an amusement park, where she was found stuck fast in a bog.

No one was injured as a result of the elephant's two breaks for liberty, but the property damage is estimated at several thousand dollars. On her way she made free with fences, lawns, and flower beds and toppled over several parked automobiles.

Under the terms of the will a son, Francis Stanley Rickards, 10 East Schiller street, is named as sole beneficiary.

An Unequalled Collection of Jade and Amber

Brought Directly from the Orient

OUR present collection of Jade and Amber, displayed for the first time during the Exposition, is the finest ever shown here and, as far as we know, elsewhere. It is the tangible and interesting result of our personal search through the East, prompted by the demand for these lovely ornaments.

Pendants fashioned by cunning fingers, Necklets carved without a break from the solid stone, imperial Jades, linked Bracelets, translucent Eardrops, heavy Nuggets as once decorated the chest of a Chinese deity, pieces which resemble emeralds in color and clearness,—these are but faint suggestions of the treasure here disclosed.

The lover of Amber will delight in the group of superbly matched Chains which shade from the palest yellow to burnished copper, and in the golden drop Pendants which gleam like crystallized honey.

The extent of the Collection does not add to its costliness, for all these pieces are moderately priced

IRELAND TAKING FINAL STEPS TO BECOME A STATE

BY PAUL WILLIAMS.

DUBLIN, Oct. 11.—The final articles of the Irish Free State constitution and its preamble were adopted today by the provisional parliament. Consideration of the document, its third reading, will be completed tomorrow. It is not expected that there will be any important change on the third reading, which can be disposed of in a few hours.

The Dail tomorrow probably will adopt the report of a committee named to revise articles covering the formation of the executive council or cabinet. It is proposed that the minister of finance shall be a member of the executive council, which will also include the president, the vice president, and another member of the ministry.

The Dail will also elect its first colleagues on the executive committee, which will act as a collective authority, responsible to the Dail on all matters of state, and who must resign if parliament fails to give it a vote of confidence.

CHARGE OF FIRE PROMOTIONS FOR MONEY UP AGAIN

Albert Will Include It in Plea to Crowe.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

FOURTH ARTICLE.

The question of paying cash for supposed "influence" in getting on the fire department promotional lists is one that has agitated the department and the civil service commission for many years. It is not dead yet. It has been resurrected by the civil service commission trial of five assistant marshals. It forms part of the complaint which Ald. Arthur F. Albert and John C. McDonnell, deceased second assistant marshal, will take up with the states attorneys office today in seeking a grand jury investigation of the entire fire department situation.

This question was taken up last February by a special grand jury of which Charles E. Varley was foreman.

Find No Evidence of Money.

"We received several anonymous communications charging favoritism and securing of promotions by the payment of money in certain branches of the classified service, particularly in the fire and police departments, the grand jury report said, "but we found no evidence to prove that money had actually influenced any of the promotions."

"Evidence was presented to the jury by a civil service employee that he paid a sum of money to one or more politicians with the idea and assurance that he would pass a pending examination. Further evidence developed that he did not pass the promotional examination in question and failed in his efforts to obtain a refund of his money. The jury believes that those seeking promotion should entirely disregard any suggestion that promotion can be secured in this manner."

Marshals' Protest Recalled.

"I am surprised and 'gossip' of this nature that led the five assistant fire marshals who were tried recently for insubordination to pass a resolution which stated:

"The honesty and fairness of recent promotional examinations in the fire department have been under suspicion."

"The terrible impression now seems to be, but within the department and outside of it, that in manner of questioning, in experience and efficiency credits, that the civil service examinations are jokes and that merit and efficiency count for nothing."

McDonnell wrote this document. It was signed also by Arthur R. Seyerlich, Jeremiah McAliffe, John F. Smith, and James J. Costin, third, fourth, fifth, and sixth assistants, respectively, to Schaefer, and McAliffe stuck by it and were tried. The other three said they had not realized it was such a drastic criticism and had not intended to go beyond the fire marshal and were excused. Seyerlich is said to be the next chief marshal.

McDonnell Cites a Case.

When asked for facts to back up these statements, all fell back upon "gossip," except McDonnell, who cited the case of Lieut. William Schaefer of hook and ladder No. 2. Schaefer was called up by John F. Cullerton, business manager of the fire department, according to McDonnell's testimony. Schaefer said to Cullerton: "I think I stood a pretty good examination. My friends told me I would be taken care of." And Cullerton replied, according to the record of these hearings: "You friends be —. They did not do anything for you. The — upstairs (meaning the civil service commissioners) did that enough."

There was no further investigation of this at the hearing. It was an old story to Charles E. Frazier, president of the commission. He had heard it from Schaefer and had called in Mr. Cullerton months before. Mr. Cullerton had denied it. There it stood.

If the grand jury can get anything out of that they are welcome to it," said Mr. Frazier yesterday. "This thing has been troubling us for years. I recall four years ago there was a promotional examination for lieutenants coming up. There was one or two with some name on it. Those men thought that they should be taken before the new list was posted. An attorney told them he would fix it up for $500 each. They paid him. He never came near the board."

The new list went through. These fourteen men were left out. They tried to get their money back and there was so much trouble over it that the story came to our ears. We called in the lawyer. He said we could do nothing as he was acting within his rights as attorney. We sent the matter to the state's attorney, but nothing was done. I do not doubt that there are men who go around to firemen representing that they can help them and collect money for it."

In the last two examinations the efficiency marks were supposedly made by Fire Marshal O'Connor. Mr. Cullerton, however, "advised" with him.

and this caused much criticism. The special grand jury said of this matter: "Efficiency marks examined in the fire department by our officials in many instances would be hard to defend, due to the fact that under the system employed to determine the efficiency, able bodied men with fine department records were given exceedingly low marks, notwithstanding their superior officers testified they were very efficient and entitled to the maximum rank, while others who had their rank for only a short period, having no awards for meritorious service, received practical ly the maximum rank."

The report continues that the grand jury had the questions remarked by qualified men who "reversed the examination markings."

"Evidence before the jury," the report said, "shows that the conduct of the department for more than a year past has been largely dominated by one whose duties have no connection whatever with the uniform rank. It is our opinion that the undue activities of the business manager with the personnel impairs the morale and efficiency of the department."

'AUCTION BLOCK' BOND DEALS ARE SCORED BY JONAS

Refuses Plea to Reduce Bondsmen's Loss.

"Murder on the auction block!" The words were those of First Assistant State's Attorney Edward A. Jonas, to whom was brought the case of Peter Fricano, found guilty of murder, who is now a fugitive from justice. Six Italians, men and women of small means, who signed Fricano's superseding bond of $15,000, ask that they be allowed to settle for $5,000.

"Much as this predicament appeals to me," said Mr. Jonas, "I cannot recommend that the bond be paid. These people say they were threatened by a relative of Fricano's and forced to sign the bond, but Fricano is supposed to be in Italy and his bond is clearly forfeited. To cut this bond would be to put murder on the auction block."

Hold Some One Responsible.

"We have not yet come to the point where a man can commit murder, go out and get friends to sign his bonds, and flee from punishment if he is found guilty. Somebody must be held responsible, else one man will say, 'My murder cost $10,000.' His friend will reply, 'You got stung; mine only cost me $5,000.'"

Another case in the war against bondsmen was that of Mrs. Theresa O'Leary, a widow, 1200 East 71st street, who appealed to Mr. Jonas yesterday. She said she had been told by an attorney who posed as her friend that Le Roy Webster was charged with stealing a few bags of flour. The attorney told her there was no such and asked her to sign Webster's bond. She did so. She found when the bond was forfeited that Webster is widely known to the police as a "con" man, and is charged with obtaining $2,000 in a confidence game. Her only son is in a Milwaukee hospital totally disabled as the result of wounds received in the war.

Forfeits $30,000 Bond.

Judge John R. Caverly joined in the war against bondsmen yesterday when he forfeited the $30,000 bond of William Pierog, a physician, before him, and S. S. Shindler, 1200, another place, who had signed the bond. He declared he would have the physician indicted if he found he had received a fee for signing the bond. Pierog is under two charges of robbery with a gun and two of burglary.

EVEN SOLOMON MIGHT STUMBLE ON THIS MIXUP

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—One of Solomon's problems was presented to the Supreme court today for solution when it was asked to determine who was the mother of Thomas Atkins, a Creek Indian, to whom were allotted 500 acres in Oklahoma valued at $4,000.

The court will not have the affections of a mother to aid it, for the child long since died, and the woman whom the lower federal courts held was the mother is also dead. The second woman is alive, but demented.

The land was purchased by Charles Page from Minnie Atkins who claimed title to the mother of the deceased Thomas.

Nancy Atkins contested the ground that she was the mother. The Federal government came into the case and asked that the patent be canceled, contending that Thomas had never existed, and that the land had been allotted through fraud.

DRINK MILK

When dieticians discuss the chemical properties of food they say "Drink milk."

When they are concerned with heat- and energy-producing food, again it is "Drink milk."

For body-building, for the correction of some ailments, and protection against others, they command "Drink milk!"

Truly, milk—when pure and fresh, as served at CHILDS—is Nature's perfect food.

Whether taken as a beverage or other food, it balances the body.

CAPTURES ROBBERS AFTER CHASE.

After a chase of nearly two blocks, Michigan J. Fleming, probationary policeman, captured Albert Tighe, 344 South Hamilton avenue, and John O'Neill, 4437 South Paulina street, who had broken into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hall, 1700 West Fifty-first street.

"There are only three states in the union," said Chairman Adams, "which have not done anything, even of the most petty nature, for their ex-service men. Mississippi, Pat Harrison's state, is one. Enclosed Car Show

TO THE PUBLIC!

Here Are Facts You Should Know
About the Motor Car Situation!

The Chicago Automobile Trade Association considers it important that the public know the following facts:

The demand for enclosed cars of all types during the next four months will exceed the productive capacity of the industry.

The body manufacturers were unprepared for such an unprecedented public demand.

The factories are working day and night to increase production.

We are entering the greatest period of automobile demand the country has ever known.

Beginning Saturday, Oct. 14th, up to and including Sunday, Oct. 22nd, you may inspect the various models of enclosed cars being produced by all manufacturers in the Show Rooms of the members of this association.

These represent all the latest and most up-to-date creations in all types of enclosed cars. Coupes, sedans, limousines, town cars, etc. These new models show the enormous progress made in enclosed car manufacturing.

The enclosed car is no longer a Winter luxury. It is the economical car, because it is the only car you can drive with comfort all year 'round, in good weather or bad, on city boulevards or for country touring. Easily thrown open to every refreshing breeze in Summer, it is as easily closed against rain, snow, wind or dust.

The enclosed car is the health car. It protects during snow and rain and chilling blasts. It saves fine clothes. Its warmth and comfort are a boon for social functions, for opera and theatre-going.

It is the smart car, the economical utility car. Modern improved manufacturing methods have reduced its cost and increased its sturdy strength and reliability.

Visit the Automobile Show Rooms during these nine days. Inspect these beautiful products of the auto manufacturers in comfort, at your ease and free of the jostling of vast crowds.

If you can't go in the daytime go at night. All dealers will keep their show rooms open until 9:30 or later.

G. O. P. AID TO FARMER TOLD BY SEN. MCCORMICK

Asks Return of Party in Centralia Speech.

Centralia, Ill., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Hundreds in this section of Illinois turned out this evening to welcome United States Senator Medill McCormick, who visited Centralia on his tour of the state. Senator McCormick spoke to a friendly audience and his address was frequently interrupted by applause.

Other speeches were made by Oscar Nelson, Republican candidate for state treasurer; Congressman E. B. Brooks, candidate for reelection, and Charles E. McCormick, Republican legislative candidate, of Salem.

Senator Guest of Honor.

Preceding the meeting Senator McCormick read the speech on a bill of rights given by Dr. W. D. Richardson, chairman of the Centralia Republican committee and legislative and county Republican candidates. Political workers from all over Southern Illinois were present.

Senator McCormick referred to the record of the Republican congress and administration, calling particular attention to the saving of the nation from the reduction of governmental expenses and the lowering of taxes, and declared that this record merited a return of the Republican majority to congress so that the policies of the party could be fulfilled.

Millions Out of Work.

The Democratic administration left the country with millions out of work and with the government spending billions of dollars a year," he said. "Today no man who wants to work needs to be without a job.

Referring to the recently enacted tariff bill, Senator McCormick said: "This tariff bill is not perfect. No legislation is perfect. But it prevents the American workman from being thrown in competition with European workers, some of whom are making but $1 a day."

UNWRITTEN LAW IN REVERSE FOR HAMMER SLAYER

BY EDWARD DOHERTY.

Los Angeles, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Armour L. Phillips has made his second big decision. The first was after his wife came in one night all smeared with gore and told him: "You'll miss your little sweetie. Armour; I've just killed her with a hammer." He decided he'd better tell the police. Decision No. 1 resulted in Mrs. Phillips' arrest and her indictment for the murder of Mrs. Alberta Meadows. She is to go to trial Oct. 20.

New "Unwritten Law."

Now Phillips, according to Attorney E. A. Herrington, representing the prisoner, has decided to go on the stand as the witness for his wife "and tell all." It seems that the "unwritten law" with a new twist to it will be used in the defense.

Phillips, according to the attorney, will tell how the woman tempted him and how he fell. "He will bare his soul." He will declare that he and his wife, who are separated, planned to take him on a trip around the world, that she might spend on him the $5,000 insurance money.

He is scheduled to tell of many interesting and intimate moments spent with Mrs. Meadows, relate how he taught her to drive an automobile, how he took her to a picnic, and what happened after her little sister was sent "to pick wild flowers."

Dead Girl Defended.

Relatives of the dead girl, officials of the bank where she worked, and Deputy District Attorney Charles Trick protested against this move of the defense. They assert there was no reason for jealousy on the part of the wife.

Held by Fire Attorney.

Harris Goldberg, 65 years old, owner of a shoe repairing shop at 8815 Summit avenue, was taken into custody yesterday by Fire Attorney Shirley F. High for questioning regarding a fire in the shoe repairing shop of Jacob Forberg, 8820 Summit avenue.

ILLINOIS G. O. P. OPTIMISTIC OVER CONGRESS RACES

Democratic claims that they will elect congressmen in at least six downstate districts, were disputed at Republican state headquarters yesterday, where it was contended that the only possible doubtful districts are the Twentieth and Twenty-third.

Rep. Robert told of the southern Illinois tour of Senator Medill McCormick and State Chairman Walter Rosenfield are that the Republicans are working in harmony. Senator McCormick spoke last night at Centralia, today he is at East St. Louis and Edwardsville, and tomorrow he will be at Quincy and Galesburg. Demands for his time as chairman of the senatorial campaign committee, it was said, may necessitate a change in his itinerary.

Instant Quaker Oats

Cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes

The Only Oats

That cook in five minutes

Now Quaker Oats hold supreme place, the world over, in two important ways.

They are the finest-flavored oats in existence. They are baked from queen grains only—just the rich, plump, flavorful oats. We get but two pounds of such flakes from a bushel.

For many a year, oat lovers the world over have sent for Quaker Oats because of that matchless flavor. Those who know it will not go without it.

Now an Instant Style

Now that same flavor, that same quality, come in an Instant style.

Instant Quaker Oats cooks in 3 to 5 minutes, and it cooks to perfection. It is by far the quickest-cooking oats in the world.

In Instant style the oats are cut before baking. They are rolled very small and are partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small, thin flakes cook quickly.

Get Quaker Oats always, in fairness to yourself. This is the food of foods—the greatest food that grows. You want the dish delightful.

But tell your grocer which style you want, the Instant or the regular. He has both, and the price is the same for either.

HARDING SHOULD BE APPEALED TO FOR GREAT LAKES

BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.
Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—(Special)—President Harding and Brig. Gen. H. M. Lord, director of the budget, should be appealed to by the people of Chicago and the middle west who are interested in the restoration of the Great Lakes naval station to a recruit training ground.

The position expressed today by several officers of high rank in the navy who are hopeful for the future activities of the Great Lakes station.

Interest the President.

To convince the director of the budget, friends of the Great Lakes project declare it would be wise policy also to interest in the matter the director's boss, the President of the United States.

"We are convinced," said a high ranking naval officer today, "that the budget is going to be our trouble point next year for appropriations."

Members of congress will be slow to act on appropriations for recruiting if the budget does not back them up. Get the President interested in Great Lakes. Get Gen. Lord convinced.

Then, our next step? Tell them to the good people of Chicago. We need their help. The congressmen need their help and later the people can demand help from their congressmen."

Moffett Is a Booster.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, is one of the most enthusiastic Great Lakes station men in the country. Formerly commander of this training station during its great period of development, he is a Moffett and his interest not only because of past associations but because he believes it is a great necessity for the country.

"I am glad that the people of Chicago and the middle west are actively demanding activities at the Great Lakes station," said Admiral Moffett today. "Everybody knows where I stand. Great Lakes is the most important station we have."

"We have got to keep up the interest."

set of the people of the middle west in our navy if we are going to retain a navy and the people of that section of the country. It is our only direct point of contact with the great inland people. The more we are in touch, the greater makes the people in favor of the navy and assures us the navy we need."

JOINT MEETING TO HEAR PAVING GRAFT CHARGES

AM. A. O. Anderson's charges that a paving combine, headed by the Lundin-Thompson rulers of the city hall, has Chicago in its grip and is reaping the profits of those interested "will make the city hall experts look like pokers," will be aired at a joint meeting of the council streets and alleys committee, property owners and real estate men, next Monday morning.

Ald. Anderson outlined his demand yesterday. He does not know why, under the regime of Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, paving costs have jumped from $5 a square yard in 1918 to $16 at present. Cost increases, due to the war, cannot be said to account for this stupendous advance, the alderman declared.

Graft Gets in Early.

The charge is made that 50 cents a square yard is collected from the contractors between the time that a paving project passes public hearing and the letting of the contract." Ald. Anderson asserts. "The question is: Who is getting this money? Another thing I want to know is why the board has done away with the five-year paving guarantee and substituted a two-year guarantee."

Ald. John Toman, chairman of the committee, started several interested in the investigation by announcing, before the graft got fairly under way, that the inquiry "is all bull."

"I'm not going to be the fall guy for a lot of aldermen who want to blow off their noses," asserted after the meeting. "The increase in the cost of labor and cement accounts for the increases. Anderson takes of. This is all being stirred up to help a lot of real estate sharks."

Anderson Scores Toman.

Ald. Anderson, who is in the real estate business, came back with the assertion that "Toman is always talking about the real estate sharks, but he never says a word about the crooked politicians."

Ald. James B. Bowles, appeared before the committee and argued for a delay of at least thirty days in the preliminary work in connection with widening of Ashland avenue. Mr. Faherty promised a delay "for that length of time, " if it is possible in law."

U. S. DRAWS OVER ALL CANADA GAIN BY IMMIGRATION

BY ROY CARMICHAEL.

Montreal, Oct. 11.—The United States is attracting more people from Canada than Canada is attracting from the rest of the world. The representatives of the great British steamship companies are protesting.

Meeting in Montreal today the agents of the Canadian Pacific, Canadian White Star, Dominion and Anchored-Donaldson companies waited on Charles Stewart, acting minister of immigration and colonization. They demand that drastic measures be taken to insure proper advertising of the opportunities offered by Canada to the immigrant. They appeal for a restoration of the department of immigration and colonization administered by a separate minister.

The transportation interests ask that the government immediately issue a general invitation, through the medium of advertising, publicity, lectures and exhibitions to all desirable immigrants to consider the opportunities of Canada for home making.

Putting the request on the basis of general conditions now prevailing in Canada the draft of the representation states: "That while the census of 1911 showed a population of 7,000,000 and immigration from 1911 to 1921 was almost 2,000,000, while vital statistics showed a natural increase of 1,336,407, the 1921 census showed a population of only 8,758,494. Immigration returns for the last year were 45,162, compared with 70,084 the previous year and other figures indicated that Canada is losing to the United States as many immigrants as it brings in."

In denial by the Supreme court yesterday of application for a rehearing of the case concerning the will of the late Charles E. Haines of St. Charles, a fight for possession of his $600,000 estate, which began on his death, July 28, 1914, between his relatives on the one hand and the Mercy hospital of Chicago and the St. Charles schools on the other, is brought to a finish. By the will, two-thirds of the estate went to the hospital and the remainder to the schools, and, after eight years of warfare in the courts, this disposition of the estate is upheld.

Meeting in Winnipeg today the agents of the Canadian Pacific, Canadian White Star, Dominion and Anchored-Donaldson companies waited on Charles Stewart, acting minister of immigration and colonization. They demand that drastic measures be taken to insure proper advertising of the opportunities offered by Canada to the immigrant. They appeal for a restoration of the department of immigration and colonization administered by a separate minister.

Immigration returns for the last year were 45,162, compared with 70,084 the previous year and other figures indicated that Canada is losing to the United States as many immigrants as it brings in."

RESERVES GIVE YALE EDGE OVER IOWA SATURDAY

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Can Iowa, last year's western conference champion, defeat Yale Saturday?

Haven next Saturday, in one of the most important inter-sectional football struggles of the year.

This is the question on the lips of every football fan in the west. Even coaches of mid-west elevens are in doubt. Some believe Howard Jones' team has an excellent chance to win, while others give Yale only an outside hope.

To hold Yale, the Hawkeyes must be sure to stop the smash attack directed on and off the tackles, with some plays sent through the line. As a result, the outcome of the interesting struggle will depend largely upon how the Iowa line holds up.

Reserves Give Ell Edge.

At the start, Old Ell will have a strong advantage in the number and ability of his reserve strength. This may be the deciding factor. Iowa cannot be said to have the second string players of the eleven.

Iowa undoubtedly will throw the fundamental principles of football, the same as Chicago did last year when it defeated Princeton. Iowa has been given a great forward pass attack, one which combines tosses of every sort. If the team gets away with a few heaves for scores, Iowa may win.

In the east, the big elevens play a sound and safe game. No chances are taken, the ball is in the keeping of the captain's position in the center of the field. For this reason, eastern teams have generally been ahead of those of the middle west in punters. It's a certainty Yale will boot the oval out of danger any time it is inside its thirty yard line.

Much Depends on Punt Catchers.

Hancock of Iowa is a fairy good punter, and will not lose much on exchanges unless the Iowa catchers mess things up in the backfield. Parkin has caught punts well all season, but it remains to be seen with him, after the captain of a great battle. Shuttleworth can also catch kicks, and Jones may delegate him to handle punts because of his greater experience.

In this connection it would be much better for Iowa to play a blocking game on kicks instead of trying to break through and block the punts. If the Hawkeyes stop the Yale catchers and end from inside down to cover punts, Iowa will have a much better chance to handle the ball safely, with the added advantage of longer possible return.

Conditions Favor Yale Win.

Iowa has reached a higher point of development than any other team in the middle west. The eleven was pointed for the Yale game since the opening of practice on Sept. 15. Although reports have it that players of both teams have been injured, the majority of cripples will be in the fray, for part of the contest at least.

Yale will play just enough football to win without showing any of its trump cards for the Harvard and Princeton games.

STAGG ASKS AID OF FRATERNITIES TO STOP BETTING

In a personal letter to fraternities at the University of Chicago, Coach A. Stagg yesterday made a plea for cooperation in doing away with betting on the intercollegiate football games. His letter characterizes betting as an "especially growing menace to inter-collegiate football" and "the biggest evil that can afflict the conference universities now have to contend."

"As I understand it," Mr. Stagg says, "there are two kinds of betting: one in which the student bets under the impression that thereby he expresses loyalty to his school; the other in which he thinks he can make some easy money. The former is a misplaced impression of loyalty, the latter condemns itself. The result of both is harmful to the athletics of the University."

Coach Stagg's letter is a result of the action of conference directors last September in which it was unanimously agreed to stamp out betting if this were possible.

BADGERS JOIN FIGHT

Disapproval of betting on college football games, including even "friendly" wagering and endorsement of Big Ten Commissioner John L. Griffith's campaign to eliminate football and college games, was passed by the University of Wisconsin Club of Chicago. The club pledged Maj. Griffith's fullest cooperation in curbing the betting evil in relation to football and all other college athletics.

Evans Only Par Player in Bankers' Golf Tourney

Del Monte, Cal., Oct. 11.—"Chick" Evans, in the match play against par competition of the American Bankers' association golf tourney, held at the only player to stand up against par. He started with 1 down and held his own. W. H. Thomas, Los Angeles; E. J. Burlingham, Chicago; Marshall Forrest, St. Louis, and W. H. Eddy, New Orleans, tied for second place, finishing 3 down to par.

ST. PATRICK, 18; JOLIET, 7.

The groupings of Cornell and McCormick gave St. Patrick, 18, a 7 to 18 over De La Salle of Joliet in a Catholic league game yesterday. The work of this year's amateur side was the best since that of Cornell in the line. Kolan was the De Paul star. Lupton, 18, was the St. Patrick 18.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Richard S. Folsom, former corporation counsel under the present city administration, selected by Mayor William Hale Thompson, no doubt has the right to say that Mr. Folsom could and would interpret the law correctly, says that he did not consider the real estate and building experts as city employees while he was in office. He is only one of a number of corporation counsels or assistants who express

Their opinions were asked in a letter from the Citizens' Association because of the internal revenue solicitor's opinions that the present city administration's five experts are exempt from income taxes on more than $2,742,000 received in fees from the city in 1920 and other sums in previous years on the ground that they are city employees.

Now at last

I find myself the victim of a disease that must end my life course within a few days, or perhaps hours. It becomes necessary then for me to dispose of my wealth. I am without relations, with the exception of a distant aunt and her daughter, who are also dead.

"My recollection is that the real experts who were used during my incumbency were employed at so much per day for the time they actually engaged in city work and not as city employees; all of them, as I recall, had other outside interests, either real estate men or contractors, and, of course, could not be considered as city employees.

"Your point that their testimony is less valuable in case they testify as city employees than otherwise I think is well taken."

Not Employés," Brundage Says.

Attorney General Edward J. Brundage, who was corporation counsel under the Busse administration between 1907 and 1911, in his reply to the Citizens' association letter, said "that employees of the class mentioned were never regarded as city employees during my tenure."

"It would have been a distinct disadvantage in court to have these men regarded as employees," he wrote.

Philip J. McKenna, chief attorney for the board of local improvements during the Harrison term, 1911 to 1915, wrote that the experts "were not then regarded as city employees."

Former State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne was assistant corporation counsel under the Harrison from 1903 and 1905. He was first assistant corporation counsel under Mayor Dunne between 1905 and 1907 and he also held that same position between April, 1911, and December, 1912.

"During all this time," wrote Mr. Hoyne, "I never heard any one contend that these experts, whether real estate men, auditors or accountants, were city officers or regular city employees."

ALDERMEN ACT ON EXPERTS

Facing overwhelming defeat, Ald. Louis B. Anderson, Negro Lundin, Thompson's leader, raised only a feeble voice in defense of the city hall experts at yesterday's session of the city council finance committee.

The resolution of Ald. U. S. Schwartz demanded that the ruling by which the five experts were exempted from income taxes on their $1,742,665 of debt be reopened. It was up for consideration. Ald. Reidert read the resolution: There was a pause. Proponents of the resolution were numerous and loaded with facts and figures.

"This is an encroachment on the business of the government," Ald. Anderson, eloquent expounder of Thompson principles and policies of the council chamber declared.

After Ald. Woodhull had declared that misstatements that should be corrected had been made at Washington, the resolution was adopted.

In the performance of her secretarial duties, May Thurston duly drummed on her machine the remarkable letter to Saxe Temple, in which the old miser made known his intended disposition of a golden treasury. Because she possessed an excellent New England conscience, the girl maintained silence, despite the urgings of a feminine desire to share the secret. This reticence on her part was the more admirable, inasmuch as, just at this time, her heart was becoming strongly engaged by a young man.

Harley Masters, the man in the room, was a civil engineer, employed in the neighborhood with a substation on an electric road. On one occasion he had stopped at Ald. Anderson's office for a glass of water from the well. The door of the house was absent at the time, but the secretary was present, and, by some chance, out of doors that pleasant May morning. Conventions seemed rather absurd in that remote region. The young engineer admired the charming face and slender form, and hastened to engage her in conversation. She responded without reluctance, rather with pleasure in this diversion from the monotony of her leisure. Afterward a considerable intimacy developed between the two. May Thurston had much of her time free, and Masters contrived so to arrange his work as to take full advantage of the leisure. That his heart was touched seriously may be doubted, but his courtship lacked nothing in the evidences of intensity and sincerity. He made a deep impression on the girl, who was both ingenuous and tender.

Masters was the first man to whom she had given more than the most general heed, and, almost at the outset, she found her affections engaged. She regarded him as astonishingly handsome—as, in truth, he was, in a melodic fashion of his own, with huge dark eyes, long lashed and glowing, a smooth, dark, velvety, and thick, clustering hair, which was always artistically tousled. In fact, the whole appearance of the man was blantly artistic, in the bohemian acceptation of the word, and he was scrupulous to wear on all occasions a loose bow of silk at his throat. He was tall, too, and broad enough, but there was too much slope to his shoulders, his neck was too long, his head bulked too large for harmony. His voice was agreeable, his manners were suave, quickened by a jauntiness which was perhaps assumed to harmonize with the insolent air of the cravat. May Thurston, who had read her Byron, thought of him as the Corsair, and her heart fired.

It is easily understood that the secret of his keeping silence concerning her employer's remarkable testamentary plans showed her the possessor of some strength of character as well as sense of honor. She even managed to keep her own counsel after Masters openly declared his love, and besought her to become his wife—at some vague time in the future, when he should have arrived at a position of independence. She yielded readily to his ardor, and had plighted faith, a tremble with maidenly confusion and womanly rapture. Then, a few days later, Abernethy died. She felt now that she was at liberty to reveal the circumstances of the will to her lover.

As they strolled on the lake shore the evening of the day after the miser's death, May told the story, to which Masters listened with absorbed attention.

ARMOUR, MARCY
MUM ON EXTENT OF GRAIN DEALS

Refuse to Give Facts in U. S. Futures Hearing.

J. Ogden Armour and George E. Marcy, president of the Armour Grain company, appearing as the principal witnesses yesterday before the federal trade commission, declined to reveal the extent of their operations on the Board of Trade since the wartime ban on trading in futures was lifted on July 15, 1920. The commission is conducting an inquiry into "future" trading in grains.

The examiners for the commission failed in every attempt to draw from either witness any admission tending to show a relationship between the operations of the Armour Grain company and market price fluctuations. Both defended the Board of Trade as a necessary medium through which the farmer finds a sure market for his grain, and Mr. Marcy insisted that under the revised rules of the board a "squeeze" or "corner" is now practically an impossibility.

Denies Armour & Co. Interested.

Mr. Armour denied that Armour & Co. was interested in any grain deals in which he participated, some of which, he said, were handled by the Armour Grain company and some of which were handled by other brokers whose names he refused to reveal.

Mr. Marcy said he was not acquainted with the business of the Armour Grain company and did not receive daily reports from the commission house, although many of his speculative deals in wheat and corn were handled by that company. He declared he was not a "big enough trader" to follow the market closely.

What proportion of your transactions pass through the Armour Grain company?" he was asked.

"I couldn't say, offhand," Mr. Marcy replied. "At times they are large."

Doesn't Trade in Futures.

Q.—Doesn't Armour & Co. trade in futures? A.—No.

Q.—Don't they hedge hogs in corn?

A.—No.

Q.—Might your deals be called scalping transactions or do you hold your deals open for some time? A.—As a rule I hold them open for some time. That depends upon conditions.

Q.—Are your transactions in the future more or less extensive? A.—That depends upon the conditions.

Q.—Can you give us the amount of your transactions? A.—I really don't know and I don't know as I care to answer that question.

When pressed for an estimate of his greatest open interest in wheat or corn at any given period, Mr. Marcy replied he was willing to give the commission any information he could but that he did not see that this would be of importance in the present inquiry. He said he was short on wheat last May but couldn't even estimate how much.

Will Announce Course Today.

Mr. Marcy was then asked if he would furnish the commission at a later date with figures of his transactions in the futures market. He said he couldn't answer that question now. At this point, Attorney Alfred S. Austrian, as counsel for the witness, stated that it was merely a question of protecting his client's rights. It was finally agreed that both Armour and Mr. Marcy will appear before the commission tomorrow morning and give their answers as to whether they will submit the details of their various transactions.

"To whom do you give orders to buy or sell?" he was asked. "Who handles your transactions in futures?"

Won't Name Brokers.

That would involve a list of brokers," Mr. Marcy replied. "I don't care to give that."

Q.—On what information do you base your speculations? A.—Oh, just the market conditions, the information that any one would have.

Q.—Do you follow the advice of others? A.—Oh, sometimes.

Q.—Do you follow Mr. Marcy's advice? A.—Not always.

Q.—When trading in futures on wheat or corn, do you notice the effect on prices of your purchases or sales made by you? A.—Not necessarily. Such things depend entirely upon the situation.

Has No Theory of Trade.

Q.—You have no theory of trade? A.—No.

Q.—But you watch the market? A.—I'd hardly say that.

Q.—How do you know when to buy or sell? A.—I don't know. I just act on instinct.

Q.—When you are in the wheat market do you devote any time to it yourself? A.—I do not.

Mr. Marcy said he considered his

SHARP ADVANCE IS REGISTERED IN GRAIN MARKET

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain prices moved up sharply after closing slightly early on the signing of the peace treaty in the near east and in sympathy with a decline of $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ c. in wheat in Liverpool. The surplus was taken on the market on the break by strong commission houses and stop loss orders were given. Receipts moving up to 20% from the low, and corn $\frac{1}{2}$ to 1% the close being on a reaction due to the profit taking and evening of the holiday. Wheat finished with a net gain of $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ c., and corn $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$ c. Oats were $\frac{1}{2}$ c. higher to $\frac{1}{4}$ c. lower and up to 2c.

A good part of the buying of wheat was based on the belief that peace would be a strong bullish influence, as it would remove the nervousness which has been a factor in financial and business circles in a country and abroad for some time past. Wheat were buyers at Wm. W. Miller, as well as here, and cash grain and really in all markets, with premiums advancing in the southwest and to the northwest due to milling demand.

An increase of 25,500,000 bu. in the world's available supply was largely in Canada and afloat, and had no influence on values, and the trade also ignored the reduction in the estimated crop of $2,000,000, as compared with figures of a month ago. Export demand was restricted by inability to secure grain from the west due to transportation conditions.

New High for December Corn.

December corn sold at a new high on the present upturn and the deferred deliveries in new ground for the season. Buying was an excellent class and offerings were light at times, with a large number of stop loss orders caught on the way up. December held up well and closed at 82c on a turnover up for the day and on profit taking. Bullish sentiment was predominant, although there was little in the news that attracted attention.

Commission house buying of December oats narrowed the discount under May to 5c at the last. Strength in other grains was the main influence, but in corn the belief prevails that oats are selling too low. Shipping demand, with a net gain $\frac{1}{2}$ to 1c better as compared with December.

Oats showed more strength than other grains, with fair buying of December by cash interests, partly to remove hedges against sales to the east. The two northwest markets had 26c gains.

Demand in Provisions.

Scattered liquidation was on in October and with limited support prices declined readily, closing 174/22c lower. Liverpool lard was off on all deliveries, and with the weakness in hogs had a depressing influence. Deliveries on October contracts aggregated 250,000 lbs. lard. Packing in the west for the season to date as compiled by the Price Current-Grain Reporter, was 18,200,000, against 16,500,000 last year. Prices followed.

New York, Oct. 12.—[By Associated Press.]—On the eve of enforcement of the禁酒令, both American and British ships today were faced with a test case.

One was a temporary order granted today by Federal Learned Hand, enjoining immigration authorities from molesting on board the American steamship and St. Paul. The order directing the agents to show cause why the禁酒令 should not be issued to them from interference with the ships of the British owners and anchor lines.

Hailed as Victory
The injunction granted as an important victory to steamship companies, who would lose millions by the enforcement of the Daugherty prohibition. It was issued upon application of the International Marine corporation, which operates American line operating the and St. Paul.

The Cunard complaint that the carrying into effect of the Daugherty opinion would cause steamship companies great loss by reason of difficulty in crews and by the diversion of their business to Canadian further stated that it would be able to comply with foreign law requiring an Italian law requiring of 12 per cent alcohol content to officers, members of and third class passengers.

The ruling, the complaint would also violate existing trade between the United States and Britain. It further alleges that interpretation on the nationalization act renders the act illegal and void.

Decision to Test Rule
Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—Associated Press.—Federal Judge Hand in New York issued a temporary order restraining immigration and customs agents from enforcing the liquor ban against the American line was today before the court in this respect.

Promulgation of regulation would be violated by carrying out of the liquor ruling was effect of Judge Hand's act.

Won't Seize Vessels
An important phase of en still under discussion was whether vessels convicted of violating the "transportation section" instead act would be amenable to forfeiture penalty. Attorney Daugherty ruled that in the ship would be liable to seizure by the government. Section, however, indicated that the measures would not be and gave the impression that the imposed would be confiscation of liquor and impound.

In order to remove as far as possible the discrimination against American ships as of the extension to Oct. 14 of the liquor ban against entrance into American ports by foreign carriers.

THIS IS THE MACHINE AND THESE ARE THE SLOGANS THAT SENT THE CITY HALL GOATS SCAMPERING ALL OVER THE PLACE UNTIL THEY WERE TIED UP BY A COURT ORDER. The machine was displaying the slogan in a vacant store under the Democratic headquarters at 10 North Clark street and was attracting crowds when the police served notice that the exhibitions must cease. The city hall law department backed up the police, and the Democrats were forced to go into court. Judge Ira Ryner yesterday issued an injunction restraining the mayor and his aids from interfering with the display of the slogans, and the Democrats are planning to install more of the machines in every part of the city.
